Into the Wood

Epoch Homes designed this mansion in arts and crafts style so it would fit in with the surrounding homes in the buyers' Greenwich (Conn.) neighborhood. The cedar-shingled house is meant to have an informal feel and a connection to the surrounding environment, an aspect typical of arts and crafts homes, according to Modular Mansions by Sheri Koones. The owners turned a small lot with a steep rear ledge into an advantage, using the setting to create a waterfall, pond, and rock garden.
